

Kari Sederburg

Executive Director, Aging and Adult Services Agency Michigan Department of Health and Human Services

Kari Sederburg is executive director for the Aging and Adult Services Agency at the Michigan Department of Health and Human Services.

In that role, she serves as the chief advocate for more than 2 million older adults in Michigan, directing nearly $100 million in federal and state funding for aging programs and helping to shape policies that provide older adults the services they need.

Previously, she served as director of the Office of Services to the Aging, a position to which Gov. Rick Snyder appointed her in 2011.

She also has served as director of public policy for the Michigan Nonprofit Association, vice president for marketing and communications at the Gerontology Network in Grand Rapids, a senior account executive at The Rossman Group and as program officer for the Detroit Local Initiatives Support Corporation.
